

Abstract summaries for ACR

Discover some of the scientific data we are presenting this year at the American College of Rheumatology (ACR) Virtual Meeting 2020. Please note that abstract summaries only contain information from the full scientific abstract and selected supporting references. These abstracts have been adapted into plain language summaries to help translate complex data into digestible information. The results of these studies may not reflect those of other studies. Summaries are not intended to provide medical advice nor intended for promotional use.
